WITH RECORDS: The first seed of the three (3) teams with a record of 1-1 would be determined on the run differential (RD) for the two (2) games the teams played. Run differential (RD) equals the total runs scored in the two (2) games minus the total runs allowed. The team with the highest (RD) would be first seed and thereby receive the bye and advance to Game #5. If two (2) teams are tied for first (1ST) seed position with the same (RD) then, the team winning in head to head competition would be considered the first (1ST) seed team. The other remaining two (2) teams with a 1-1 record would play Game #4 with the winner playing the first (1ST) seed Team in Game #5 with the winner being the Tournament Champion. In Game #4 and Game #5 all pitchers are eligible.
